
Same area, three zoom levels. Dashed lines are tile edges: each deeper level splits the area into 4× as many tiles, and each tile stores only the features (and pieces of features) inside it.